One Bottle of Resolvent Better than Ten Large Bottles of Sarsaparilla. One Bottle will Purify the Blood, and Expel Corruption from the Body! So neift is this remedy in entering into the sirculation, that it has been detected in the blood and write in six minutes after it has been taken.

BETTER THAN 10 R. R. R. Resolvent cures with astonishing rapidity every form of Chronic, Scrofulous and Skin Diseases, and exterminates all corruption from the human system.

One bottle of Dr. Radway's Renovating Re-solvent contains more of the active curative principles of the best Jamaica Sarsaparilla, (Sarsaparillian,) than Ten of the largest size bottles of the mixture sold under the name Sarsaparilla.

The process adopted by Dr. Radway in vacuo, of securing extracts (prepared in vacuo,) of Medicinal Roots, Plants, Herbs, and other regetables possessing great curative proper-ties over Scrofula Chronic, Syphilitic and all skin diseases, that enters into the com-position of the Benovating Resolvent, pro-duces only ONE OUNCE of the pure extract out of 20 lbs, of the crude roots. The Inert matter that enters so generally in the large bottle mixings and prepared under the offi-cinal or pharmacopeia formula, is, by Dr. Radway's process, cast aside as rubbish.

One teaspoonful of the Resolvent is sufficient for a dose for all Skin Diseases. Salt Rheum, Pimples, Blotches, Sores and Eruptions of the Skin, Humors in the Blood, &c., One teaspoonful, three times per day, will, in a few days, make the Blood pure, the Skin in a tew days, make the Blood pure, the Skin clear, the Eyes bright, the Complexion smooth and transparent, the Hair strong, and remove all Sores, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Tet-ters, Cankers, &c., from the Head, Face, Nock Mouth and Skin. It is pleasant to take, nd the dose is small. The first dose that is taken seizes on the disease and commences its work of resolving away all diseased deposits, Purifying the Blood, and driving corruption from the

The Renovating Resolvent, if used in any of the following named complaints, will posi-tively cure the patient:

Skin Diseases, Caries of the Bones, Humors in the Blood, Constitutional, Chronic and Scrofulous Diseases, Scrofula, Scrofulous Discases, Scrofula, Syphilis, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Sait Rheum, Erysipelas, Rickets, Scald Head, Sore Legs, Cankers, Glandular Swellings, White Swellings, Bolls, Nodes, Sore Ears, Sore Eyes, Stramous Discharges from the Ear, Opticalmia, Itch, Constitutinal Debility Westing and Decay of the lity, Wasting and Decay of the Body, Skin Eruptions, Pimples and Blotches, Tumors, Cancer-ous Affections, Dyspepsia, Wa-ter Brash, Neuralgia, Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Ure-thra, Strictures, Difficulty of Passing Water, Calculous Deposits, &c.

ALARMING INCREASE OF BLADDER, KIDNEY and CALCULOUS DISEASES. The annual reports of the Health Com-missioners of different cities, show a great increase of deaths from diseases of the Kid-neys and Urinary Organs—RADWAY'S REYOVATING RESOLVENT is the only remody that has disadved calculous concretion.

Its SOLVENT, discretic, lithoutriptic and toole properties exceed that of any medi-cine in the world: it readily assimilates with the fluids, and promotes their exit through the Kidneys, Ureter and Bindder, removing calculous obstructions, and correcting all derangements of these organs.

38 swift is this remedy in passing into the circulation, that it has been detected in the wrine in aix minutes after it has been taken; by adding to the liquid when cold a few pieces of starch, then a few drops of nitric acid, the liquid then a rew drops of mire acid, the induit will change to a blue color. When brick dust, or a thick white deposit, like the white of an egg. (albumen,) is detected in the ves-sel, or bloody discharges from the urethra, or micturating in drops, accompanied by a burning or scalding pain—the RESOLVENT burning or scalding pain—the RESOLVENT should be used, and R. RADWAY'S PILLS being an aperient, soothing, and tonic laxative, are the only purgative medicine safe to administer in these difficulties; their mild, soothing and these difficulties; their mild, soothing and healing properties produce evacuations without irritating the nucous membranes of the howels, kidneys, ureter, bladder, &c., or causing straining when at stool.

Apply to Post Office box No. 2. 29Social Superstition.

Among social observances which may be classed as exploded superstitions, may include the circulation of wedding cards and wedding-cake among the friends of married couples. The cake went first, and the cards are fast following. I am not quite sure that the omission, in either case, is an advantage. People always liked getting the cake, though it is a horrible thing to eat, and the cards certainly answered their intended purpose-that of marking the feeling towards old acquaint-ances under new conditions, and influencing them in paying congratulatory visits. Now, under the new arrangement, half the acquaintances of the bride and bridegroom are uncertain whether to call or not; and as they are very apt to give themselves the benefit of the doubt which gives the least trouble they frequently remain upon anomalous terms with the happy pair for an indefinite period—determined in the end perhaps by an accident.

The superstition which dictates the use of cards in general intercourse is not like-ly to die out. Society cannot get on without them. But calling—where you act-ually want to see the people—has been re-lieved of half its horrors by the practice of appointing certain days for being at home, he is only at the age when others begin and adding the attraction of tea, which, fairly to live. You can certainly see him A great many people would prefer that these rites should be performed after dinner instead of before, and it would be reasonable to the second before, and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and it would be reasonable to the second before and the second before the second before and the second before the secon to allow them the alternative. I dare say we shall come to this some day. Meanwhile many take kindly to what has been called the social treadmill, and grind away for the fun of the thing. It is bard, per-haps to have to drop additional cards after having dined at a house, and such visites de digestion are usually paid with the kind of gratitude known as a lively sense of benefits to come.

Among existing superstitions that which necessitates introductions at balls in pri-vate houses has a great many heterodox enemies. They are mere matters of form, since the persons introduced are frequenty no wiser as to one another's personality than they were before; and the observance has the effect of curbing individual order. There is no harm in them; they are often an assistance; but they should not be held necessary, and in a happier state of exist-ence I dare say they will be dispensed

Among exploded superstitions upon such occasions may be reckoned speeches after supper. Where there is no regular supper to make speeches after, the evil na-turally cures itself; but even where there is, the bore in question is never met with, except in offensively old-fashioned society. So much the better, say all sensible peo-ple. Speeches after dinner, when the dinner has a business object, of course can't be helped, and come under a different cate-

While on the subject of dinners, I may mention a custom which is surely founded upon superstitions, and ought to be banupon superstations, and ought to be can-ished forever from civilized society—the only society in which it prevails. Why should we be oblidged to perform the not very difficult operation of dividing our food nto morsels fitted for the mouth with a weapon so formidable and effective that we could employ it with the greatest case to cut the throat of our next neighbor from ear to ear? Had we to kill the meat in the first instance one could understand the propriety of being so armed; for the sake of carving joints that bore and birds that bewilder, such an instrument is appropriate enough. But why place it in the hands of persons who have only their own mouths to accomodate? It is enough to embar-rass a nervous man, and how that very uncomfortable person, "the most delicate lady," manages to survive the responsibili-ty is one of those marvels which can be accounted for only by custom founded on the grossest superstition. The anomaly exists but in association with European manners. The natives of the East, and semi-civilized The anomaly exists people elsewhere, would not dream of such an enormity. I do not insist, of course, that people ought to eat with their fingers; and chopticks are naturally unfitted or dividing a steak. But when knives are wanted—and they are not wanted, nor and he throws all on the table and used, for many dishes—why should we be made to use a murderous weapon? One can fancy them fitted for the days of old, when knights carved at the meal in gloves of steel and drank the red wine through the helmet barred; but in those times people used their own knives at the table, and employed them, upon occasion, in casual combats. Such is not now the custom. though there are instances of the proceeding on the part of violent persons even when engaged at the meal itself; and the temptation is one which should not be thrown in the way of men of angovernable tempers, exasperated, it may be, by the bad dinner of humble life. But these enormous knives are given us advisedly, and so careful is custom in measuring the supighter descriptions of food smaller knives are given, so that you are supposed to calculate the amount of force required at every course, and always employ it accordingly. It is always a comfort to get to a little knife after a large one—it is like the sense of peace and security that comes af-ter a fray-and no knife need be larger than the silver one put on for dessert, if indeed it need be so large; and I need scarcely add that forks might be modified in proportion. There are a few superstitions in connection with our language which may be pointed out in this place. There have been a great many in most times; but disappeared while others have bers another Russian, whom Prince Naring. Among them I will note only some peculiarities in pronunciation. We still

He answered. quis of Cholmondeley is at home, giving the syllables their legitimate sound, with-out running the risk of being told by a facetions servant that he will refer us to some of his people. If we ask for the Marquis of Chumley we shall be treated at least with respect. Eccentricities of a Rich Russian Prince.

know how stands the young Russian Prince Narischkine, who for some months past has been fencing with the bank at Baden. Lucky Prince! He is now as well known as Victor Hugo. Not a day passes without the newspapers telling us of the money he has lost the bank notes that have been stolen from him, the necklaces he has bought, the scenes he seeks and the intermittence he finds. Let us in turn give some particulars about this lion of green baize tables. When I say lion, I use, I need scarcely say, a figurative expression; for nothing about the Russian prince in question reminds one of the king Some people imagine a Rusof animals. sian prince is necessarily seven feet high, and walks about with a bear skin over his shoulders when the thermometer stands at blood heat in the shade. Prince Narischkine has nothing of the 6in tall, is as thin as a lucifer match, and is very pallid. Everybody in Paris has seemed to live; his glance is actute and piercing; his bearing is that of a perfect gentleman. If he rarely laughs 'tis because he is rarely amused. Over his lips flits a smile which would appear disdainful, and which is at the bott expression of ill-concealed deceptions, for that satiated child knows very well nobody can buy with millions the gifts nature bestows gratuitously on its privileged children. The bottom of this tempera-ment is fatigue. Prince Narischkine goes to the theatre as he stakes a hondred thousand francs, merely to spend a quarter of an hour. He never laughs. He rarely talks, and when he does open his mouth, one would think it is put in motion by a little steam engine his adroit tailor has managed to put into the pocket of his black dress coat. All Paris knows this young man, but nobody knows his friends. He is a man of cold and disdainful character, who does not easily make acquaintances. The unfortunate fellow has already learned, though only five and twenty, to disdain friendship; as for love, he knows what it costs.

He is at Paris seen almost always alone.

He buries his sadness in the walls of a cottage, where he sometimes remains two or three months together in contemple tion of his millions. They ask at the club, where is Prince Narischkine? One answers, "He is at Naples." Another says, "He is sick." When everybody begins to forget Prince Narischkine, he returns fresher than ever, more irratable than be fore. Nobody knows whether he is good or ill-natured, for nobody knows anything about his life, except that he is a great tease, and that half the actions of his life are contrived to annoy somebody. He would give 500,000 francs for a picture worth 60 francs just for the sake of annoy ing an acquaintance. He would lose 300, 000 francs at cards to irritate his partner by making the latter lose 400 francs. The master of an infinite number of millions, he feels a keen enjoyment of his companion's pecuniary embarrasments. He knows he has the advantage of milions, and he likes to make it felt. winter, after winning 100,000 francs at his club, he set out the next morning for He did not care for 100,000 francs, but he did care a good deal to enjoy the knowledge that his departure greatly annoyed the acquaintances whose money he had won. Prince Narischkine carries this desire of showing the superiority of his millions with him wherever he goes Baden he pretends to humiliate the bank by throwing on the table a packet t bank notes which makes the banker trem ble with anxiety and toleasure. Narischkine goes about the saloons with 200,000 or 300,000 francs of bank notes, and he throws all on the table and annour

He is as quiet at Baden as at Paris He is as quet at basel as 6,000 francs on the rouge. When he wins, his little eyes glitter with an unaccustomed brilliancy. When he has lost 200,000 brilliancy. When he has lost 200,000 france at trente-et-quarante he goes to play an ice at dominoes to avoid the appearance of vexation. Prince Narisch kine likes to conceal his sensations, and none of his companions accurately what takes place in that sick bird's little head. It is true, nobody ever accused him of an evil action; at the same time nobody ever heard of his doing a good deed. No-body knows whether his fortune should be envied, or whether he should be pitied for his absent youth. But he shows that moncareful is costom in measuring the sup-posed necessities of the case, that for the lighter descriptions of food smaller knives seen him often. I have observed him a good deal at the gaming tables at Baden and at the Bois de Boulogne, where he generally buries his sadness at the back of brougham. Here is a child who would like to amuse himself, and who is always fatigued, except when he can play a joke on some companion. We must acknowledge he has an aristocratic bearing, and the only time I was in his company, in a friend's drawing room, I was surprised to hear him talk with great fluorcy. Con-ceive my stupefaction. I believed he had in his youth been taught only this phrase: "Six thousand france to the masse evening last winter he, even made a smart repartee. His club has among its mem-bers another Russian, whom Prince Naryou lend it?" He carelessly replied, 99, "Oh, no; I should leave a little for my countrymen."—Foreign Letter.

A LITTLE GIRL AND THE KING.—The king of Prussia, while visiting a village in his land, was welcomed by the school children of the place. After their speaker had made a speech for them he thanked them. Then taking an orange from a plate has asked. he asked : "To what kingdom does this

"The vegetable kingdom, sire," replied little girl. The king took a gold coin from his pocket, and holding it up, asked, " And to what kingdom does this belong?"

"To the mineral kingdom," said the girl.
"And to what kingdom do I belong,

then?" asked the king.

The little girl colored deeply, for she did not like to say "the animal kingdom," as he thought she would, lest his majesty should be offended. Just then it flashed into her mind that "God made man in his own image," and looking up with bright-ening eyes, she said: "To God's kingdom, sire."
